EXTERNAL EMAIL. Please check sender.

The portal just shows that a proceeding was commenced. The public can request copies from the court file, usually in person or by email to the court office. So the suit it public, and the documents are public, but access isn't the easiest. I wouldn't generally share it. They can ask the applicant to share it if they want. Sometimes, amongst lawyers, we will provide a copy on the basis that it is a public document and for no other purpose. But as the respondent, I don't see any upside.

I left a voicemail for Chris Lee at LN today; no response yet.

Michael,

Just a quick question, as we can see it coming, but is the court filing now public? Can we just refer people to search for it via the Ontario portal? Is that the Ontario Courts Public Portal? I am not sure how long it takes for these things to be uploaded. Any guidance would be appreciated – no rush, we can connect next week.

Have a great weekend.
Very best,
Stacey
